

Breakfast briefing: Real estate investment management - market trends and corporate transactions - what you need to know

Drawing on data from 'Asset Management 2025', the Simmons & Simmons global survey in partnership with Bloomberg, this breakfast briefing will discuss the expectations and key trends seen by asset managers globally and what they might imply for the future of real estate investment management. We'll look at relevant macroeconomic and political factors also.

Given 60% of respondents envisaged a corporate action in the next 3 years, the panel will then focus on the practical considerations when undertaking corporate transactions as buyer or seller. The panel will look at the sale of real estate investment and management platforms and corporate real estate M&A transactions such as joint ventures and the sale of real estate within a corporate wrapper.
